LEADING ATTORNEYS WHO WILL PROSECUTE LOVING

HON. WOOD BOULDIN, Commonwealth's Attorney for Halifax, who will conduct prosecution.

MR. DANIEL HARMON, Charlottesville Attorney, who will aid in prosecution of Judge Loving.

The granting of a change of venue by Judge Barksdale in the case of the Commonwealth vs. former Judge W. G. Loving, of Nelson county, who is under indictment for the killing of Theodore E. Estes, and its removal to Halifax, takes the conduct of the prosecution out of the hands of S. B. Whitehead, attorney for the Commonwealth in Nelson, and places it with Hon. Wood Bouldin, who fills that position in Halifax.

Mr. Bouldin is one of the most distinguished lawyers in his section, and is regarded as exceptionally strong in the prosecution of criminal cases before juries. He comes of an old, aristocratic Virginia family, and many of his ancestors were distinguished as professional men. Mr. Bouldin was a member of the recent Constitutional Convention from Halifax, and later, upon the resignation of Mr. William Leigh as Commonwealth's Attorney of that county, he was appointed to the position by Judge Barksdale. It is understood that Mr. Whitehead will assist Mr. Bouldin, but the latter will be the chief representative of the Commonwealth in the case, and will direct the battle from start to finish. Mr. Daniel Harmon, of Charlottesville, who had already been employed by the Estes family to assist Mr. Whitehead, will appear with Mr. Bouldin.

The trouble, which happened soon after 10 o'clock, arose, said McCoy, over the fact that McCarron repeatedly offered insults to his wife. Mr. McCoy was sitting on a sofa in his room when, it is alleged, McCarron entered and called Mrs. McCoy a vile name several times before her husband. The wife was in the room at the time. Mr. McCoy attempted to avoid trouble, but McCarron was so persistent that, at last, he became enraged beyond endurance. He got up, seized a pistol and fired at McCarron, striking him in the left leg, about the middle of the thigh. The second shot struck Mrs. McCoy, however, but not seriously injuring her.
